June 2005

*Fathers Day is June 10th.
We hope everyone who is still lucky enough to have their Father has a very special day.*

Dance Tips

Couples who dance together "live long and prosper" together. Does that sound trite - well do your own research. When you find a couple who dances together, they tend to have long, loving lives - and they dance together all the way out of life. Old age is not something that dancers concern themselves with. They are having too much fun, dancing.

1. Don't be a know it all. When others have a suggestion listen.
2. Try to be pleasant to others and smile. Remember what "Social" means.
3. Thank your partner, thank your host, thank your fellow dancers and lastly thank God for your ability.
4. Be confident without being smug. Nice but not condescending.
5. Pay attention to those around you. Migrate toward the positive people and away from the negative ones.
6. Every day, work on your social habits.
7. Pay attention to your speech and body language. Don't project the wrong image.
8. Dance as though those around you are your friends - don't be the one who dominates the dance floor space.
